

TORONTO CHURCH EXTENDS CALL TO DR. MONTGOMERY

Local Pastor Receives Call from Bond Street M. E. Congregation.

Word was received last night from Toronto, Canada, that the Rev. Dr. James S. Montgomery, pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, Columbia road, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest, had been called to take the pulpit of the Bond Street Congregational Church.

When the subject was broached to him last night, however, the Rev. Dr. Montgomery, while admitting that he had received this offer of a pastorate in Canada, declined to make any statement.

"I have nothing to say at this time," was all the Rev. Dr. Montgomery would say, when interviewed by reporters.

Considerable surprise was manifested by prominent clergymen of the city when they learned that there was a possibility that the Rev. Dr. Montgomery would leave Washington, as he is held in high regard by his brother clergymen. The Rev. Dr. Montgomery, before assuming charge of the Calvary Church, was assigned to the Metropolitan Methodist Church, John Marshall place and C street northwest.

WHY THANKSGIVING? TOPIC OF ARTS CLUB

Members Recite Reasons for Celebration in War Times.

There are really quite a few things to be thankful for this year in spite of the war and the sixteen different brands of conservation which it entails. Such was the consensus of opinion at the Arts Club dinner last night when the topic for discussion was, "Things We Are to Be Thankful For."

Charles Bruce King, the prominent local attorney, made a brief, but strikingly patriotic address. Miss Anne Fahnestock, another speaker, emphasized the necessity for food conservation.

On a different line from the other speeches was that of Mrs. George F. Kerr, who talked on community singing, emphasizing the importance of the nation-wide musical festival which will be held on December 9 and of Washington's participation in it. Central High School will be the scene of this community demonstration.

Mrs. Warren Akers and Miss Jessica McBride were the hostesses of the evening, while Warren Akers presided as chairman.

Mrs. Harriman Goes Abroad.

London, Nov. 29.—Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, of New York and Washington, has arrived in London to investigate women's part in ambulance, hospital and other war work. Her object is to ascertain how the services of American women best may be utilized. Mrs. Harriman also will go to Paris for the same purpose.

WEAVER TOURS COAL YARDS TO HEAT CAPITAL

District Fuel Administrator Makes Inspection of Local Supplies.

A personal tour of investigation was made of many of the coal yards of the city yesterday by John L. Weaver, District fuel administrator, to show why, with hundreds of carloads of fuel in local freight yards, people lack coal.

Coal is arriving in the District at the rate of 100 carloads a day. Any shortage is entirely the fault of the dealers in failing properly to handle and distribute the commodity, say fuel administration officials.

It is possible that final action against the dealer who was called before Mr. Weaver Wednesday, charged with violating regulations promulgated by the administration, will be taken today. Unless the dealer can show to the satisfaction of the District fuel administrator that he has obeyed the law, he will be forced out of business at once.

Reports have been received by Mr. Weaver of the violation of the regulations by other dealers in various sections of the city, and wherever investigation brings sufficient evidence, strong action will be taken. Charges that dealers are holding up all possible sales of coal and fuel until the new price scale has been announced, so that they may enjoy any increase granted in as great a measure as possible, have been circulated.

POSTMASTERS AND POLICE TO ASSIST IN SLACKER ROUND-UP

Immense Governmental Detective Agency Stretching From Coast to Coast Will Ferret Out Those Evading Draft Law.

Federal agents, the entire postal machinery of the nation and police all cities are drafted into the pursuit of men who attempt to evade the conscription law in regulations made public yesterday by Provost Marshal General Crowder and approved by the President.

The regulations also set the penalties which shall be imposed upon the men who attempt to escape military duty, or who by their own indifference fail to comply strictly with the letter of the law.

"Under the plans of the War Department every police official, high or low, throughout the land will become a part of the army-building machine," declared Gen. Crowder today. "This great agency will be put in operation from 5,000 separate points by the local boards."

The postal authorities, also, under direction of the President and Postmaster General, will work hand-in-hand with the local boards in every direction, and every possible clue will be run out to trace registrants who have disappeared from their home districts in order that they may have no possible excuse for their failure to return their questionnaire within the seven-day period prescribed by law.

It also was stated that the postal authorities, through their ability to trail persons through the addresses on letters, will turn their whole machinery toward the apprehension of men who fail to report for service when ordered.

The agents of the Department of Justice throughout the country also will carry on this work in addition to taking a large part in the prosecutions.

New Regulations Issued.

In a new regulation promulgated yesterday on the method of dealing with draft evaders, Provost Marshal General Crowder asserts: "Those who fail to return the questionnaire, or to appear for physical examination, or to report change of status, or to report for any duty, or to perform any act at the time and place required by the regulations, or by directions by local or district boards in pursuance thereof, are guilty of a misdemeanor under the selective service law. Under authority of the United States, or of any State, or any county, municipality, or other subdivision thereof, to locate and take into custody such persons."

persons and to bring them forthwith before local boards to determine whether their cases shall be reported to the Federal Department of Justice for prosecution, and to serve the summons to witnesses issued by local or district boards.

"Persons who, after induction into military service, with intent to evade such service, willfully fail to report to local boards for military duty, or fail to entrain for a mobilization camp, or who absent themselves from enrollment, or from their parties, selected men on route to a mobilization camp, are deserters and are subject to military law. It is hereby made the duty of all such police officials to apprehend and arrest such deserters and proceed against them."

$500 Reward Offered.

"A reward of $500 is payable for the apprehension and delivery to a military camp, post or station of a deserter from the national army when the person making such delivery presents the certificate of a local board."

President Wilson's order calling the postal service into action as a detective agency to apprehend draft evaders, follows:

"Postmasters and all postal employees shall give every aid to local boards in securing the address of registrants; and, upon request of local boards, postmasters shall furnish to them the forwarding address of all registrants whose mail has been forwarded to an address in possession of the postal authorities, for the confidential use only of the boards and any person charged with the administration of the selective service law."

Supplementing the President's order, Postmaster General Burleson has issued the following instructions to 56,000 postmasters:

"Postmasters should make every effort to make a delivery of letters addressed by local or district exemption boards to registrants under the selective service act and particularly the notices which these boards send to registrants calling them to places of enrollment."

"Serious consequences ensue to a registrant who fails to respond to this latter call, as the law classifies him as a deserter, and unless an explanation is made he must be dealt with as such. It is therefore, of the greatest importance that postmasters see that such notices reach the addressees if possible."

Military Touch Adds Brilliance to Game

Uniforms Conspicuous on Georgetown Field As Usacs Battle Against College Team; Notables Are Seen in Audience.

By MARY LAW.

Lowering skies and high spirits, two dead game teams athirst for victory, an ordered pandemonium of cheering. Then a desperate battle on a wet, slippery field; savage line rushes; unfortunate fumbles; the unfailing brilliance of that hurrying young Hercules, Gilroy. That's the way in which the crack Usac team was defeated by Georgetown yesterday afternoon at American League Park.

A crowd of approximately 4,000 was on hand for the game in spite of the raw, chilly weather and misty drizzle.

Uniforms in Evidence.

Army, naval and marine officers were well represented at the big game. Among the most interested spectators was a group of French army officers who joined their American comrades in urging the visitors to hit the line hard.

Representatives of the allied countries, judges of the Supreme Court, members of the Diplomatic Corps and the Cabinet, also were present.

Shortly before the opening whistle blew 1,000 khaki clad men who had "biked" from the ambulance station at Allentown to this city to cheer their comrades in the fray, marched into the right field position.

Every car arriving at the grounds was crowded to its capacity.

More than a score of pretty debutantes dispensed programs. Each young woman was accompanied by a brisk young soldier in dress uniform. Fifty Boy Scouts acted as ushers with the efficiency usually displayed by these youngsters.

In spite of defeat, the ambulance men cheered their team unceasingly under the leadership of Swartz, the former Princeton cheer leader. The roar of their thousand strong cheering section was heard for blocks when they raised the famous "Usac yell."

The seventy-piece Usac band marched over the field between halves and played stirring military airs. Though "Iodine," the comedy black bear mascot of the Ambulance Corps, failed to bring victory, he gave a novel touch to the game and apparently enjoyed himself rambling around in the snow which bordered the field.

Team Play Wins.

The Georgetown team was up on its toes from the beginning of the contest, "peppy," aggressive, determined. In line poundage the teams were almost equal. In the individual brilliance of players the Usacs were superior, having five stars of the first magnitude. "Units" Brewer, a former Washington boy; "Curley" Cramer, the husky fullback; Pike Johnson, the great Southern tackle; Lin Moore, a heavy-weight tackle, and "Mike" Murphy, of Yale. But in co-ordinated team play and fastness of offense, the Georgetown team proved its greater strength and clinched its victory.

Both teams played with every ounce of their strength, fighting every inch of the ground. Had it not been for several unlucky fumbles on the part of the Usacs the score would not have been so one-sided. Wicks, the Usac center, had his shoulder wrenched rather badly. Usac leaders were positive that a game on a dry field would have shown a far different score, as a number of their men are from the West and unused to playing conditions such as yesterday's.

But Georgetown is satisfied.

HOLY TRINITY FUND GETS FLYING START

Commissioner Gardiner Speaks at Meeting of Parishioners.

District Commissioner W. Gwynn Gardiner and the other speakers at the dinner ushering in the campaign of Holy Trinity parish, Georgetown, to raise $75,000 in a 10-day drive for the completion of the $140,000 fund for the new school buildings, last night in the parish hall, declared that there is no doubt but that the fund will be raised.

Rev. E. de la McDonnell, S. J., the pastor, who was the last speaker, said many of the 150 workers attending the dinner had asserted him they were going to get a sum with six figures instead of five. He promised that Georgetown would have a free school with free books, and said plans are being worked out to make it "the best in the country."

B. A. Bowler, president of the Georgetown Citizens' Association, declared that he was just as positive that the entire $75,000 would be raised as if the money lay on the table before him.

William E. Leahy, the assistant District attorney, also stated his opinion based on the enthusiasm manifested by the workers and the parishioners generally that there is no doubt but that the sum of $75,000—five figures—will be raised in ten days.

Both Commissioner Gardiner and Attorney Leahy emphasized the value of the community of having such a school as is now being built, and the fact that people of the parish were making the best possible investment for the future by providing a workshop in which the youth could be properly moulded.

The beneficiaries of the Holy Trinity fund, buildings will be to the community of old Georgetown were dwelt upon particularly by Mr. Bowler, speaking as president of the citizens' association. He said that no public improvement is comparable with the building of schools, and that through organized effort Georgetown is going to start a great community development.

Commissioner Gardiner said that from a civic standpoint the new school building will be badly needed because, though the District Commission-ers have made a recommendation for a staggering amount next year, it will be impossible to house the children because the city and population are growing so fast.

John Hadley Doyle was toastmaster and paid a glowing tribute to the founders of the parish and to their spirit which has prompted the present generation to raise a fitting memorial in these parish buildings to the memory of the pioneers who built there the first house of worship in the District.

Enthusiasm and patriotic fervor kept the 150 campaign workers and their 25 guests at the tables for more than four hours. There was a long program of patriotic songs and much enthusiasm was shown in the singing of the "Booster Song," written by Rev. E. de la McDonnell, S. J.

George O'Connor, with Matt Horne at the piano, contributed several of his old-time favorites and by special request of J. Leo Kolb, the chief of the "It's a Long Way to Berlin," with a spirit that started a demonstration that nearly broke up the party.

Rousing cheers were given for each of the captains of 17 teams which start off in competition this morning to raise the $75,000 fund.

Reports of each day's progress are to be made every evening at a supper in the old parish hall, which is the campaign headquarters.

To You:

¶ A very young daughter wrote her daddy, "I just love YOU because YOU are YOU," and he thought it was the finest letter he had ever received.

¶ While one does not expect intimacies in business, is there any good reason why you should not wish to shop where the element of personality enters in?

¶ Is it not a joy to do business with those who extract joy out of doing business with you? That spirit robs business of its sordid commercialism.

¶ We think we have established in our store the atmosphere that spells continued success. We know our customers and they know us.

¶ We can begin by saying, "Well, Bob, what is it today?" and Bob says, "I want a pair of tan shoes," and we go to the proper place and produce what Bob wants.

¶ We know what Bob wants. There is no delay in finding it out. We know Bob and Bob knows us. We get together at once because of that.

¶ And so it is with all our old customers. They are not of the passing kind—they come and come again because they get satisfaction here.

¶ Satisfaction spells service. A satisfied customer is a well served customer. If we fail to satisfy it is our fault—never the customer's.

¶ Honest goods at better prices than elsewhere is a motto hanging over our door. We read it every day and every day we live up to it.

¶ Our store has a hundred windows. We have 6,500 feet of floor space. You know what you are buying here for the sunlight would reveal any imperfections.

¶ Are you one of us? Why not? Ask any of our customers about us. We will abide by what they say.

¶ That is a valuable asset, is it not? We are proud of it—and you would be proud too—if you could just realize that this policy means crowds of satisfied customers.

¶ Come in and see us.
